

Newspapers continue to have a solid impact in the communities they serve.

People still trust information printed in their local newspaper far more than information found online or on TV.

Statistics show that people of all ages consume more news now than ever before.